wild ginseng price
Posted by Steve Mallack - 2008/02/20 08:04

Hi from Pennsylvania,

I have about 6 pounds of dried wild ginseng roots, around 10-12 years old. I have talked to few ginseng dealers here in Pennsylvania and got some mixed prices. Does anyone know or suggest that what the fair price for my dried wild ginseng roots this time?? What is the wild ginseng price in 2008??

-Steve

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by mikelee - 2008/02/22 04:35

As of early of 2008(January), wild ginseng price is about $1000/lb dried depends on their qualities but anywhere between 10-12 years should fetch around that price. My suggestion is to call around..even out of state dealers as well. Before you sell them, make sure you certified them to meet the wild ginseng regulations. The price for woods-grown is between $350-$500, wild-cultivated ginseng should fetch around from $700 to close to wild price..but it all depends on what kind of quality ginseng roots you've got. The "quality" often means the age of ginseng. Hope this helps!

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by newbie - 2008/09/01 07:56

Whats the differences in these types of ginseng: wild ginseng, woods grown ginseng and cultivated ginseng. I have some ginseng i would like 2 sell and live in Ky as well. where can i get a list of buyers around here fro my ginseng? Any help is greatly appreciated

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by Dieselrider - 2008/09/01 14:50

In PA, I can go online to the DCNR (dept. of conservation and natural resources) and get a list for PA dealers. I don't know what KY has for that similar organization or even if that is who to contact but, you could start there. You could maybe even Google KY ginseng dealers and see what comes up. Good luck.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by mikelee - 2008/09/02 03:06

newbie wrote:
Whats the differences in these types of ginseng: wild ginseng, woods grown ginseng and cultivated ginseng. I have some ginseng i would like 2 sell and live in Ky as well. where can i get a list of buyers around here fro my ginseng? Any help is greatly appreciated

Hi there,

Following link will clarify your question about differences of 4 types of ginseng:

http://www.wildgrown.com/index.php/Ginseng-Articles/Growing-Ginseng/Different-Ginseng-Types-Depends-on-How-Its-Grown.html

Thanks

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by northern digger - 2008/09/17 03:41

Anybody got a list of dealers in Minnesota?? Go Vikes!!

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by wv digger - 2008/09/17 14:28

wow! to be paying $1000. a pound they sure started low here in wv, started out @ $400.oo a pound

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by boognish - 2008/09/17 20:57

400 a pound in NC..

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by lori - 2008/09/21 02:17

Virginia.....400.00 a pound .where can you sell it for a 1000.00

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by johnnyandjudy - 2008/09/23 15:51

i talked with turley ginseng company in IL last night via cell phone and he is paying $400.00 a lb. i also talked with darrell schmieg last night he is paying $350.00 a lb in southern IL.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by Chieftain - 2008/09/23 23:31

I talked to turley a week ago, I live a hour's drive from his house....$400.00 a pound....but he was expecting it to go up...

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by woodsman - 2008/09/26 01:26

The buyers I have talked to in Tennessee are buying for anywere from 350 to 400 a LB.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by burdett - 2008/09/26 23:36

Well ginseng grow in Alabama.

how do i get started.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by rob - 2008/09/27 01:35

---

the buyers here in ky where i live are paying $400 a pound right now and most are saying they don't think it will go up very much but i have 4 pounds dried now and i am going to wait and see if it goes up before i sell.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by Chieftain - 2008/09/27 14:43

---

me too, I would like to see it go to $500.00 a pound ,then I might consider selling ..Iv got 4 pound dry and another 3 or 4 pounds still on the drying screen's....

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by northern digger - 2008/09/27 15:09

Chief,,,you the Man!! Thats a lot of Sang!! Me and Lumpy got a little over a pound dry,,,me and the Tooler going out to check a new spot today. So much of the woods in Minnesota was cleared years ago for farm land! Its hard to find the big woods up here anymore. From the Twin Cities and North,,its lots of Pine and Birch,,Aspen,,not good Sang woods. And this time of year with Bow season open,,,most of the woods are posted!! Hope we find a good spot today.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by Chieftain - 2008/09/27 15:34

---

good luck today ...I 'm sure you guy's will find some.....I can walk across the road from my house and walk due south for aleast 6 or 7 miles and never get out of the timber or cross another road....

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by Chieftain - 2008/09/27 15:34

---

a lot more I found yesterday were yellow.

==========

Re:wild ginseng price
Posted by lloyd morgan - 2009/12/24 01:09

Steve Mallack wrote:
Hi from Pennsylvania,

I have about 6 pounds of dried wild ginseng roots, around 10-12 years old. I have talked to few ginseng dealers here in Pennsylvania and got some mixed prices. Does anyone know or suggest that what the fair price for my dried wild ginseng roots this time?? What is the wild ginseng price in 2008??

-Steve

==========